Volume XXIII—Issue 30

APPROPRIATE . . . TO WORSHIP GOD

As director of Christian youth camps for over twenty years, I could write a book about problems I was required to handle. Some of them were humorous (after enough time passed); others were not. Some were perennial. They came up year after year. One such problem was clothing—especially with the young ladies. For some reason, there were always some young ladies who wanted to show as much of their body unclothed as they could get by with.

I realize that this wording causes indignation on the part of some—particularly the young ladies and [some of] their mothers. Frankly, I was always surprised and baffled by some mothers who angrily defended their daughter’s right to wear revealing clothes. Others didn’t surprise me because the mothers themselves also wore similar clothing.

I’m going to take the risk of speaking to you from a man’s—and a father of four daughters’—perspective:

Am I aware of how difficult it is to find modest, stylish clothes for girls? Yes . . . at least as much as any guy who absolutely detests shopping can be. Am I aware that hemlines and necklines go up and down with fashion trends? Yes. Have I endured crying and begging from my daughters over my insistence that they not wear an article of clothing that I considered to be immodest? Yes. Yes. Yes!

We commonly make jokes about how men can’t understand women, right? And, to a large degree, it’s true. Ladies, you are quick to remind us guys of that fact. But whether you believe it or not, the opposite is also true. There are things about the way a guy thinks that make no sense to you. But that doesn’t change the reality. You may think it’s foolish . . . childish . . . immature. Maybe you’re right. But he feels the same about how you think! I’m not going to attempt to solve this million-piece-puzzle in a church bulletin article! But I am going to say, “Wives . . . daughters . . . listen to your dad on this. I know you think he doesn’t understand, but the truth is, he understands more than you do on this topic. And someday you’ll realize that.”

It is extremely embarrassing to have to approach someone and tell them that their clothes are inappropriate. It’s much easier on everyone (including you) if you will “take the hint” and wear modest clothing . . . and must I say it—especially to church assemblies! Mothers, everyone depends on you to dress modestly and to ensure that your daughters do also. If you are uncertain about a particular item of clothing, ask your husband. (And DON’T say, “Does this make me look fat?”)

No one wants to come up with a dress code. The Bible does that for us. It says that a Christian woman’s entire life (including what she wears) should reflect the following: “purity, reverence, modesty, decency and propriety . . . appropriate for women who profess to worship God.” See I Peter 3:1-6 & I Timothy 2:9.

And, for the record . . . I’m not your enemy. I know some of how Paul must have felt as he was concluding a particularly difficult letter to those he loved in Galatia—“Have I now become your enemy by telling you the truth?”

- Ken Stegall
